Peek at our Week

Reading:

During the next few weeks, our class will set off on a series of adventures as we investigate the theme "Exploring Together". Our class will explore the Big Idea, "We discover new things every day." We'll read fiction and informational stories about places close to home such as the library and places far away such as the moon.

Writing/Grammar:

This week we traveled to outer space in "Let's Go to the Moon" and we learned all about this exciting place. We wrote about "What is important to know about the moon?" We also learned about the suffixes -y, and, -ful and used these in our writing.

Math:

We had our test on Bar Graphs this week and then began our lessons on place value. We continue to work on our addition fluency with our Rocket Math program. Please help your child improve his/her fluency with weekly, if not daily, flashcard sessions.

Grrreat Ideas!

Ask your child to think about an adventure that he or she had. It could be a family vacation or a class trip. Have your child write a few sentences telling what happened on the adventure. Then, ask your child where would they travel if they could pick any place in the world? Together, talk about their answers.

happy 100th day

January Paw Pride Trait: Integrity

- Students in Mrs. Bredehoff's class discussed good character and integrity. Each student then thought about a classmate who has displayed integrity and wrote about why they think that student has good character.
- Congratulations to Taylor Roach, Emily Harter, Ali Voudrie, Madelyn Cox, and Gavin Pfeiffer for being chosen by their classmates as good models of integrity! Writing samples will be sent home with those students that they were written about.
